

Stephanie Murray

A born and bred New Yorker, Stephanie resides in Middletown with her husband Ken and children, Trinity, Gavin, and Skylar.

Graduating Fordham University, Stephanie worked at the New York Stock Exchange and then UBS. After wedding her kindergarten crush, Ken, the birth of her first daughter followed. Being home with the children facilitated the pursuit of her dream: penning epic tales of fantasy and science fiction interwoven with history.

Stephanie was recently appointed to the Middletown Housing Authority. She has also begun a group for the women of Middletown, called Middletown Mornings, which hosts various town officials once a month. She is chairwoman of the Step Up for St James Fundraiser.

She is founder and co-owner of Crescent Moon Press, publishing novels in the science fiction, fantasy, and paranormal genre. The company will host a unique conference at the Oyster Point Hotel in Red Bank. Called Velocicon, (www.velocicon.com), the event caters not only to writers, but to anyone interested in the field. A line up of paranormal professionals, a noted astrophysicist, and award winning authors will come together to 'edutain' attendees.

When she isn't writing or reading, Stephanie enjoys politics, history, karate, and being with family and friends.

Leonora T. Bradley

Leonora was raised in Ocean County, NJ and graduated from Barnard College of Columbia University with a degree in Psychology. She obtained her Master of Science degree in Occupational Therapy from Tufts University in Medford, Massachusetts. Leonora is a Certified Infant Massage Instructor (CIMI®) through the International Loving Touch Foundation, as well as a Handwriting Without Tears® Certified Handwriting Specialist. Through her business, Kidz Occupations LLC, she offers handwriting classes, infant massage groups for parents, and school-based occupational therapy services for children.

Leonora also spent two years living abroad in Geneva, Switzerland after her family moved there for her husband's job. Pleasantly challenged by raising her 2 children and giving birth to her 3rd in a foreign country, this experience was invaluable in shaping her understanding of the magnitude of motherhood and how differences across cultures impact upon this experience. Leonora believes that her experiences as both a working mom and a stay-at-home-mom have given her a well-rounded understanding of the unique triumphs, challenges, and tender moments that moms take on in raising their children everyday. This provides a constant positive influence on her professional practice with children and their families.

Denise Holiday

Inspired by her father's dressmaking business, Denise Holiday initially went to college to study fashion buying. But looking through the textbooks of a friend studying to become a dental assistant, she was hooked – and went on to become a registered dental assistant and, eventually, registered dental hygienist. Today, she brings over 20 years of experience to Advanced Dentistry in Red Bank.

Holiday describes her role as that of a teacher. "I teach patients the best possible ways to take care of themselves. So I have to be on the cutting edge of health issues in dentistry."

She praises the work of Dr. Robert Korwin and her colleagues at Advanced Dentistry. "Coming to the dentist's office for some people is really hard. We have the right people and tools to make it work for everyone."

Holiday, husband Robert and daughters Alexis and Bailey volunteer for fundraisers and awareness events on behalf of the Red Bank Volunteer Fire Department (Robert is a volunteer firefighter and former chief) as well as Red Bank Charter School, from which Alexis graduated 8th grade valedictorian and which Bailey still attends. The Holidays live in Red Bank.
